RE: Support Net Neutrality

I urge you to maintain net neutrality. The internet has become the standard means of transmitting information (date) for American citizens, if not the world. In addition, it is one place where individuals can be assured that, if they pay for a given speed of service, they will not only receive that level of service, but not be bullied out of the way by someone who pays for more. To use the analogy of a train, it means that the little "train" that moves more slowly down the track will not be pushed aside by a larger one thundering by.

Our airwaves should respect the rights of all citizens to have equitable access to information. Therefore, I respectfully request that the FCC give individual households the assurance that the services they purchase will be delivered in a user-neutral fashion by voting to guarantee the practice of net neutrality.

Respectfully submitted,
