

Taking away net neutrality is one of the worse things to happen to the citizens of the United States. It would destroy so many companies and businesses. The fact that our leaders would even think about taking it away is a disaster. It's will make life so much harder for so many people when we should be coming together to make life easier.

From, somebody concerned with the wellbeing of others