

I am a constituent from New Jersey who is concerned about the rollbacks on net neutrality that are currently being proposed by the FCC. I personally believe that net neutrality should be protected because of the sheer repercussions it will have by repealing it. For one thing, the internet is so widely-used in today's world that it might as well be considered a type of nation in ways. By allowing cable service providers to control what people can and can't see, it would be unjust and could seriously halt progress on productivity here in America.

It should also be mentioned that as an aspiring creator, rolling back on net neutrality would hinder the chances of me or several other creators making a name for themselves on the internet. In the 1800s, America was viewed as a golden opportunity for anyone from around the world to seek prosperity. To put things into perspective, the internet is much like that nowadays for creators who don't want to be caught up in the bureaucracy of big-name entertainment companies.
