Dear FCC,

EX PARTE OR LATE FILED

17-101

What is it going to take? This wave of protest is not the first. This wave of protest is not the second. How many times are you going to act like the American people do not care or want strong Net Neutrality? I do not understand why you must push for redaction of Title 2 protection. Oh wait I forgot, it's all about the money. It isn't about doing what is right for the American people; it is all about making money. But when is it going to be enough? Is it when you have 2 million in your account, or is it when there is 2 billion? Money is a drug and it will never be enough.

Please think about the regular American. The internet is the only great equalizer we have. It is the only place that we can go where everything is fair. It is a place where we can watch what we want to at the speeds that we want to. In my town, there is only one option for high speed internet service and that is Time Warner Cable. If they get the power to throttle my internet speeds, I will be FORCED to watch whatever they tell me. And all of those decisions will not be based on merit or truth; they will be founded in money. Whoever will pay Time Warner the most money, that will be the service that will get through the pinch point. The free and open internet that we have now is my only escape from my depressive world. Please do not take this away from me and millions of Americans.

Keep Title II of the Communications Act of 1934 and Section 706 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. I am for strong net neutrality under Title 2. The internet is a utility and should be treated as such.

I don't care how big his Reese's cup coffee cup is, he must begin to think outside of the money. Thank you for listening and please consider my words.

Wishing Well,

Zachary Maditz

I am writing to you today to protest the proposal to gut net neutrality rules. The rules in place are bare bones, but provide the minimum safety from ISP greed taking over.

Currently I am in the process of creating a startup that requires the internet. I'm making devices that can measure isotopic methane, and send the data to remote users. The changes to net neutrality would destroy my business and all the innovation that people like me do. The only people that would benefit would be the Internet Service Providers.

Having decent internet is important. Here on Cape Cod, the lack of decent internet drives away young people that we try to recruit. Young people with high stakes skills that we need. International scholars are appalled at our current service and costs. Without net neutrality we would again be the laughing stock.

Currently Comcast ranks as one of the worst companies for customer service, so why would we want to give them more power? Internet Service Providers already throttle in certain markets, which as you should know is illegal. Every time they have tried, it has hurt innovation, competition, and the average American.

Strengthen our net neutrality rules!

Thank you for your time,

LeeGray Boze

FCC officials,

Please do not undo net neutrality. I can foresee my internet provider charging extra to carry Netflix, Amazon video, Sling tv, etc and charge the consumer extra to use these services. I am a retiree on a fixed income. These are services that add joy to my life. I don't want to be "priced out of the market." Doing away with net neutrality only benefits big companies. It is time for the Trump administration to care more about citizens than they do about big business.

Thank you,

Jody Nash

Dear FCC,

In accordance to the recent actions proposed by Chairman Pai, to negate the long-standing Net Neutrality laws, I wish to formally submit my complaint. Net Neutrality has protected content creators and customers alike, allowing a free internet and letting the users and creators of the internet have their rightful domain over their property and business. The acts that Chairman Pai are both twisted and cruel to the customers and marketplaces on the internet. The net is a community, and an economy. The actions he is wanting to take will disrupt and foul the internet as we know it. It will restrict freedom and punish those who ISPs deem so. The internet service providers will be able to strangle the internet and shake all the loose change out of poor customers pockets. This would bring tyranny into the community. These actions are undesired and the problems it will cause are innumerable. The only way this problem will be solved is either that Chairman Pai resigns or calls off his war against the internet community. Please consider the horrendous implications of Chairman Pai's ulterior motives. His time in office has been drastically affected by his previous affiliations with Verizon. He will, and has already, used his power to benefit his previous company. It would be best to consider that Chairman Pai at this point in time is too flawed to be in office. It will only result in him pursuing his own betterment, with his position as leverage for his terrible motives.

Sincerely,

Dan Houston

Dear Commission:

I am writing to strongly urge you to maintain Net Neutrality. The internet is NOT a service. It is a utility as much as the telephone. We depend on it . It should not be controlled by private interest groups and certainly not political groups. I depend on it for many of my needs since I am pretty much house bound. I do most of my shopping using the net, I maintain contact with friends and family using the internet, not the phone. I contact my Dr's office by internet. The internet has become an necessity and ESSENTIAL to everyday life.

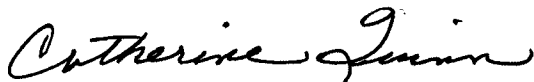

The internet needs to remain free and neutral. I actually have felt at times that my provider was throttling my flow.

Do not let a biased, financially and politically biased president pressure you into doing the wrong thing. He who controls the net will soon control the country, we have become so DEPENDANT on it.

When I worked in a college registrar's office, there were professors who would not accept papers etc if they were not done on a computer. Computer research was required. I got into a debate with one instructor who dispensed a bad grade if not done on a computer. (I argued this put those who could not afford a computer or while working jobs after school, could not get to library to use their computers) a disadvantage. It did no good. The grade stuck.

This MUST NOT be a political decision.

Sincerely,
Catherine Quinn
