RE: MM Docket No. 94-130, FCC-130

Dear Sirs:

We are in support of your efforts to waive the requirement that a broadcast station must have a licensed operator on duty in charge of the transmitter during all periods of operation.

We believe that the technology is available today to permit unattended operation of the main studio, the transmitter monitoring and control, and the monitoring of tower lights. In fact, we believe that we are better served with constant technical monitoring.

In closing, we are in a small community in Ohio and business is tough. Technical monitoring of all activities would help us reduce labor costs and help our bottom line. Any relief you can offer us in this area would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Kent D. Smith
President
S & S Communications Group, Inc.
