Good Morning:

I'm writing in response to your plea for public comment regarding your plan to give existing TV stations new spectrum space.

In the name of fairness, I hope you'll consider giving save many of these frequencies for the creation of independent TV stations. The media speaks with one voice, and giving that voice more volume will simply make it tougher to hear (and see) ideas not championed by that voice. These are the public airwaves, after all, so why not give the public some of the control.

At the very least, I hope you'll tie the granting of these new stations to some support for our presently threatened public broadcasting system. I'm sure the large concerns who will doubtless get most of these new frequencies could easily spare a few hundred thousand dollars a year to keep PBS, CPB, NPR, etc. going.

Thanks for your time.

Sincerely,
