Hello

Real World Web Productions is writing to voice our concern for the free communication that should be your first priority as a communications commission.

Please do not bow down to the telecommunications petition

The Internet has opened my world up for me as a disabled person confined to my house with only a radio or television for company, I now able to visit libraries and even receive E Mail from people I have never met but just having contact, its like be let out of solitary confinement. I now hear that they are thinking about charging for every minute that you spend on here. My income is very limited and I would lose my contact to the outside once again, can this really happen.

I was shocked to hear that the phone companies are trying to raise rates for internet use. It is my opinion that they see a demand and are trying to milk the consumers for all they can. I would like to see their proof that it costs more for internet use than for local service. Do not grant their request to fatten their wallets. Thank you for your time.

I think the Gov should not regulate or charge for any of the Iphone, Web phone or any other form of free communication on the Net, after all we already payed our taxes to have and use the Internet, is this not correct?
