

- ▲ PREPARE FOR CHANGE. The changes in our technology environment described in this Guide are accompanied by significant changes in the regulatory and fiscal environments that affect public television as well as the demographic characteristics and educational needs of American citizens. It is important to understand all of these changes and to use technology to meet the challenges they present. This means using technology as a productivity tool, an education tool, an empowering tool and a workforce training tool.

