After working hard at passing my 5 wpm to obtain my hf privileges and spending thousands of dollars for hf radio equipment to hear that the fcc is considering now taking away my hf privileges and return me back to where I started is unbleivable not for just myself but for all the hams who have spent hours of study and thousands of dollars to achive tech plus. If you were to poll licensed general class operators you would be suprised on how many use code or can even remember it. I personally feel that 5 wpm is suffient to move up to general class lic and 13 wpm to move to advance class or above. I feel a tech plus should be allowed to move up to the general class or be allowed to take the general written examine to acheive general class lic. I feel the technical knowledge out ways the code requirements.

Thank You
