

60000972767.txt

You are seeing the largest monopoly taking place where broadband providers are buying everything up and are will be charging cable customers 4 times more for anything from sports to TV entertainment.

Steve Ballmer from Microsoft who owns Comcast and NBC has been illegally trying to buy the Los Angeles Kings and Clippers through insider knowing these teams will be offered 4 times more than the past from broadcast revenue where 2/3 of it comes from customers, thus the monopoly now is that sports entertainment will monopolistically cost customers 4 times more. This will not only stop at broadcasts sports entertainment but all TV broadcast entertainment.

It is without any doubt the FCC responsibility to immediately and irrevocably demand that broadcast provider own ZERO of broadcast content.

To refuse to recognize the obvious and any latency to implementing this essential restriction will be a detriment to the entire nation's consumers.