Dear Sirs,

You have long allowed cable companies to have monopolies to the detriment of the customers. This was bad enough when they only had TV to manipulate but now that are squeezing us and overcharging us for internet access. The internet is as important as radio waves and telephones in fact it is often our (the public's) means of access to radio and telephone. You need to step up to the modern world and regulate these rapacious giants.

Thank you for your prompt action,

Martha Dugan
