OBJECTION TO REQUEST FOR ACCESS TO HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL
INFORMATION AND VIDEO PROGRAMMING CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Pursuant to the Modified Joint Protective Order in the captioned proceeding,¹ CBS Corporation, Discovery Communications LLC, Scripps Networks Interactive, Inc., The Walt Disney Company, Time Warner Inc., TV One, LLC, Twenty First Century Fox, Inc., Univision Communications Inc. and Viacom Inc., (collectively, the “Content Companies”) hereby object to the request for access to Highly Confidential Information (“HCI”) and Video Programming Confidential Information (“VPCI”) submitted by or on behalf of each individual listed on Exhibit A hereto (“Submitting Individuals”).

On October 9, 2014, the Submitting Individuals each filed an Acknowledgement of Confidentiality seeking access to HCI and VPCI submitted by parties other than AT&T to the Commission in this proceeding.² These Acknowledgements were posted to the Commission website on October 9, 2014. No other Acknowledgments seeking access to HCI or VPCI were posted to the Commission Website on October 9, 2014.³

² A copy of the Acknowledgments (and the cover letter that accompanied the Acknowledgments) is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

The Content Companies object to the disclosure of HCI or VPCI produced by any party other than AT&T to the Submitting Individuals (and any of the Submitting Individuals' respective employees, as those terms are defined in Paragraph 13 of the Modified Joint Protective Order).⁴ The Content Companies' objection rests on their longstanding objection to permitting any individual to access their highly confidential carriage agreements with the transaction parties and related negotiation materials. Instead, the Bureau should follow the same approach the Commission has successfully implemented in other proceedings pursuant to which Commission personnel review VPCI in the custody of the Department of Justice. Alternatively, the Bureau should place only the relevant portions of VPCI in the public record and redact and/or anonymize certain of the information contained in those materials. This is especially appropriate here, where none of the Submitting Individuals has made a particularized, good-faith showing as to why each needs access to the Content Companies' VPCI. The substance of this objection is set forth more fully in the Application for Review filed by the Content Companies in the captioned proceeding on October 14, 2014.

³ Under the Modified Joint Protective Order, no individual may access the Content Companies' HCI or VPCI until the Content Companies "have an opportunity to object to the disclosure" of such information. Modified Joint Protective Order ¶ 8. Under the Order, the Content Companies have no notice of—and therefore no opportunity to object to—an Acknowledgment until notice of the Acknowledgment has been "posted to the Commission's web page for this proceeding" at <http://www.fcc.gov/transaction/att-directv>. Id. ¶ 7 & n.7.

This objection is applicable even though all of the Submitting Individuals are Outside Counsel or Outside Consultants for AT&T, one of the parties to the proposed transaction. The Content Companies' HCI and the VPCI are subject to strict restrictions on access. The Submitting Individuals have made no showing that they would be entitled to access the Content Companies' HCI and VPCI in the absence of the Commission's grant of access to such information in this proceeding. Indeed, under the confidentiality provisions of many carriage agreements, most (if not all) of the employees of a third-party purchaser of one of the parties to a carriage agreement are prohibited from knowing the terms of that agreement until after the purchase closes—and even then, access to the agreement's terms may continue to be tightly restricted.

It makes no difference whether AT&T or any of the Submitting Individuals would be entitled to access to HCI and VPCI if the proposed transaction closes; there is no guarantee that it will, and the Content Companies do not believe any of the Submitting Individuals currently has the right to access the Content Companies' HCI and VPCI.

Moreover, even if AT&T or some Submitting Individuals would otherwise have a right to access such information, it cannot be the case that 45 Outside Counsel (from six different law firms) and 17 Outside Consultants—plus their employees—need access to the Content Companies' most sensitive information, including VPCI, to provide legal or consulting services to AT&T in connection with the Commission's review of these proposed transactions. The volume of individuals seeking access to the Content Companies' HCI and VPCI increases the likelihood of even inadvertent misuse of that information and makes it more difficult to detect the source of any improper use of that information. And the fact that some subset of one of the transaction parties' lawyers may have had access to certain agreements of the other parties does not justify access for all lawyers for both parties to all agreements. Otherwise, if the transactions do not close, there is an unacceptably high risk that one transaction party may later use for its benefit the terms of the other transaction party's deals.

For the reasons stated herein, to the extent the Submitting Individuals seek access to confidential information produced by parties other than AT&T, the Content Companies object to providing HCI and VPCI to each of the Submitting Individuals. A copy of this Objection is being provided to the Submitting Individuals' counsel, placing his or her employees on notice that they may not access such HCI or VPCI until this Objection (including the Application for Review referenced in this Objection) is finally resolved by the Commission and any court of competent jurisdiction.

Respectfully submitted,
