I truly believe that it is unethical, unjust and simply put, greedy that there is even a debate about this subject. The internet should remain open and equal for everyone with access to it. Even the prices now are ridiculous especially with the poor service provided. The cable companies need to look themselves in the mirror and ask themselves how they got to be so full of greed, selfishness and corruption. They need to remove their ego from their mind and see that when it all boils down, the "money in their accounts, houses, & wallets are worth nothing more than their soul. Please, this is a plea for you to realize that nothing that you think is important, is, nothing that you fear, is. Dying with a self absorbed ego and a malnourished soul, is far more frightening than living without the money, the power, the secrecy, the lies, and the pain that their decisions create. There is nothing to be gained for the people if the cable companies like time warner cable, verizon wireless, comcast, att, & the few others that which I forgot, takes over completely. & WHETHER THIS DOES GO THROUGH OR NOT, I WILL BE SADDENED BY THE LIFETIMES OF HORRIFIC KARMA THESE MONEY & POWER HUNGRY EGOS WILL LIVE. I only hope that one day you will see with all eye open that this is not the way. namaste.
