Protecting and Promoting an Open Internet, GN Docket 14-28
Access to Affordable Broadband and Competitive Choices
AT&T-DIRECT TV Transaction, MB Docket No. 14-90*

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On October 28, 2014, a delegation of small business members and entrepreneurs from the Small Business & Entrepreneurship Council (SBE Council) and the undersigned met with Clint Odom, Policy Director to Commissioner Jessica Rosenworcel, to discuss the Open Internet proceedings and the importance of broadband deployment, affordable broadband access and choice for small businesses, their customers/clients and individuals seeking the path of entrepreneurship. Business owners Victoria Braden, Todd Flemming, Barbara Weltman and Brian Moran joined me for the meeting.

We outlined points consistent with SBE Council's comments and filings in the Open Internet proceedings. Namely, we expressed the importance of affordable access to broadband for entrepreneurs, and the need for Commission policies and initiatives that encourage investment to bring more choice and reliable service to small businesses throughout the country. We noted that broadband access and access to reliable broadband was lacking in some areas, including rural, where business owners work, or want to serve customers.

We expressed our concern about regulating the broadband Internet under Title II (reclassifying broadband as a public utility), and what this may mean for investment in broadband infrastructure and its impact on small businesses and entrepreneurs. We expressed concern that reclassification could negatively impact small business access to broadband, impair innovation, and could possibly drive costs higher. We expressed concern about unintended consequences in applying Title II regulation to the broadband Internet.

We expressed our support for Commission actions and initiatives to encourage deployment and investment, which will expand access to high-speed broadband services for small businesses. For example, the group expressed support for the ATT-DIRECT TV transaction that will lead to wireline and wireless services for millions of small businesses, especially those in rural areas. The transaction would bring more competition to markets where small business owners have no choice in meeting their broadband needs.

The Commission should act consistent with our presentation and filings.

Respectfully Submitted,
