

60000979902.txt

Net neutrality allows a level playing field for companies online. Consumers already pay their ISP for a download speed they want, and their ISP should do their best to deliver, regardless of the content they are downloading.

I am for Net Neutrality. There is no reason for ISP's to charge websites for the connection.