

60000979952.txt

Permitting cable companies to offer a two (or more) tiered service based on price serves only one purpose: to make money for cable companies. It disadvantages consumers to the benefit of corporate greed. There is no "faster" internet to be produced. There is only the current speed and whatever reduced speed the cable companies get together and agree upon will be available to anyone who doesn't meet their price demands.

Shame on you if you let this happen.