If it feels dirty and monopolistic, it probably is. If the lobbyist is wearing an expensive suit, spinning like mad that they have the best interest of consumers in mind, and that it has nothing to do with protecting an eroding customer base, they might be disingenuous. If the FCC rules obviously in favor of the larger corporation, don't we all sort of lose? I wonder what it must be like to be that owned? If you read this, you might wonder how we can be so naive.
