

60000996007.txt

Allowing this deal to go through would allow an already huge megacorporation more powerful and lead to Comcast-Time-Warner allowing deals where internet speed can be sold to the highest paying individuals. Such a merger is actually against US Law, as it would create a near monopoly on internet, cable and television providers in a great number of areas. It's bad enough that the two companies in question already hold a near monopoly status.