

60001003600.txt

The free market economy and prosperity of the public, both in information and in financial security, are not benefited by this consolidation. These companies already have too much power over the market that they dominate. That power should *not* be increased, but further regulated.