The internet should be just like any other utility.

If you invent 2 lanes of traffic, this would hamper growth. Only the large companies could afford it, but they are always too slow, or too big to accept any risk. Smaller companies that could afford to take risks and new ideas could not afford the fast lane, limiting them and their development.

In all this is america the land of the free and equal... everyone should have the same equal speed internet... BTW many 3rd world countries have faster download speeds than we do...
