

60001009784.txt

The loss of net neutrality would be a bald-faced capitulation to the near-monopolistic cable and phone carriers. Instead of giving faster internet to a few giant companies (who would then charge consumers), we should focus on enhancing internet service for everyone (bringing the U.S. up to speed with many smaller and less developed countries). Please preserve net neutrality despite the obscene lobbying of Comcast and its ilk.