

60001011664.txt

I support a free and open internet.

It is unconscionable to divert the flow of information on the internet for the purposes of creating a so-called "fast lane". A lack of net neutrality will repress innovation, stifle competition, and suppress the free exchange of ideas we presently enjoy.