This individual consumer of internet service welcomes the FCC thrust toward reclassifying the Internet as a utility under Title 2. As a regulated entity, I believe the internet will thrive and significantly improve. An open and equal service for all citizens of the United States will promote creativity and provide uniform service for all. I believe under the guiding hand of the FCC, the USA internet will return to the top of the international list which ranks different countries' internet capability e.g. speed, availability, and end user satisfaction.
