Its a new age of technology and cash grabs. The last decade has seen more fraud than the rest of human history combined. It is literally a monopoly of Internet providers, trying to charge us more to stream videos and play video games. I don't have an option other than comcast or a satellite dish that wouldnt work. This is an outrage and a blatant hostile takeover of America's internet service. But now because Senators, House Members, and FCC board members are being lobbied by "Big Internet

ISP", (<http://www.howtogeek.com/92633/compare-your-internet-cost-and-speed-to-global-averages-infographic/>) apparently the price should be increased even more by the handful of companies that are trying to cement themselves into the business through legislation rather than clever business.

I realize that America is a very large place with a massive population. It's just not as easy to get cables and internet to people in Denver Colorado or Maine as compared to being jam packed in Japan or Sweden. But the difference in speed is ridiculous. It's the 2015 and America is just too far behind. The rest of the world is laughing at us and I really do believe that it is because companies like Comcast and Verizon wish to make a profit more than provide outstanding service and the fastest possible internet to America at large.
