Disclaimer Regarding Section 2 Data

Volcano Telephone Company relies on the California state administrator, Xerox, to recertify consumer eligibility for the Lifeline program. Volcano Telephone Company understands and believes that Xerox has procedures in place to recertify consumer eligibility for Lifeline pursuant to the FCC's rules and regulations. As a result, Volcano Telephone Company relies on Xerox to recertify its Lifeline customers and some of the numbers Volcano Telephone Company is reporting in Section 2 were obtained from Xerox and based on Xerox's records, including the numbers identified in Blocks D, K, and L. The numbers for the remaining Blocks in Section 2 are based on Volcano Telephone Company's records. Since Volcano Telephone Company has relied on two separate and independent sources for the numbers reported in Section 2, the total of Block F and Block K do not equal the number reported in Block E. Volcano Telephone Company believes that these differences are due to variances in when the reported numbers were calculated by Xerox for the numbers it supplied and/or when the numbers were calculated by Volcano Telephone Company for the numbers it supplied in relation to its Form 497. Notwithstanding these variances, Volcano Telephone Company understands and believes based on the information currently available to Volcano Telephone Company, that the numbers reported are true and accurate.
