

60001025959.txt

I fully support the Net Neutrality Act. Time Warner and Comcast are greedy and want to charge us, the internet users, with extra fees at the expense of the entrepreneurial spirit of the internet.

As it stands, anybody can pay for a webpage and host their own website. If the ISPs get their way, only well-established corporations will be able to provide any internet services. The availability of the American Dream will be set back to 1969.