

I wanted to submit my preference for Net Neutrality and the move towards reclassifying the internet as a public municipal. The reality is that in this day and age the internet is not a luxury, but integral to our daily lives. More and more services are moving to a digital state and the current state of internet access creates a hierarchy of access that is unfair to those in a lower economic state. Furthermore, the idea of "fast lanes" for the internet would completely destroy open competition on the internet and further divide the current situation. It is erroneous to think that ISPs would not exploit this to their personal gain. I ask the FCC to stand strong against the ISPs and their affiliates.
