I oppose the action of the FCC to reclassify Broadband Internet as a utility to be regulated by same agency. I also oppose the idea of net neutrality. I believe the agenda supported by these actions is increased government control of the Internet, allowing the creation of fees to increase government revenue and allowing government bureaucrats to determine what they feel is best for us, the consumers (control).

In addition, the fact the the 332 pages of regulations is not being made available for public perusal is problematic. It calls to mind the imposition of the Affordable Care Act. Congress had to pass it so we could see what is in it.

I respectfully request that you leave the Internet as it is.
