Dear Commissioners,

As an everyday citizen I am begging you to stop this attempt to take over the internet. I can see just from my own utilities that once the government gets involved taxes will be added that will greatly increase the cost or usage of the internet. In your desire to make everyone "equal" you will make it impossible for everyone.

If my carrier has the ability to supply me with a wider broadband at an additional cost, it should be my choice to decide to pay for an upgrade or not. It's time the government learns that 'We the People' will NEVER be equal. There will always be those with more and there will always be those with less. If you take away our ability to improve, we will all end up with less; except for those like politicians and lobbyist that have connections.

Please stop this madness and do not add regulations to the internet that will only make it harder for those with less to have more.

Please take this under advisement.
