

60001036253.txt

I don't understand why those in congregation of the matter must down grade our current internet service in the recent years so the companies across the nation can offer a more "sophisticated" and "high-quality internet" service versus just reverting back to the old "better quality" one or even better than it was before? I feel as if this was an imposed situation to market in a manner to increase profit through the same concept as "planned obsolescence".