It's clear that traditional cable television is falling into obsolescence & that the cable companies are moving to control the next generation of data (entertainment) providing. Let us be honest. It is unnecessary to change the current neutrality regulations on behalf of the general public or the vast majority of business users. The only reason is obvious to the entire planet....economic gains for a few companies who can afford to buy it. It is shameful to even have this debate. Please don't enact this change.
