BodySparkle is very concerned about the direction that the internet is taking as far as corporate control of search engine results and corporate control of email messages that we send to our customers. Our web site <http://www.body-jewelry-shop.com> is very dependent on a free and open internet to get email messages to our customers and to have our web site visible in search engine results. Right now several of the main email providers are automatically putting our order and shipping confirmations into our customers spam or trash folders and they never see them. Our search engine listings have been pushed down in search results for corporate stores that do not even carry the products that they are being listed for. This problem is going to continue to grow unless something is done about these corporate monopolies that are strangling the independent internet. It will cause small businesses to wither and die from the strangulation of invisibility on the internet.
