

60001044571.txt

You've got to be joking that you're going to let a small oligarchy of telecommunications companies destroy something as beneficial to society as the internet by allowing them to sale away the internet. Upholding net neutrality is upholding the American dream that anyone, anywhere should be able to make something happen without unjust competition.

I hope that you make the right decision and support what the American people want and not the desires of 5-6 executives.

Thank you!