I think the the proposed LPFM-250 rules are a good idea. I know of a local LPFM station, KUHS-LP at 97.9, in Hot Springs AK that would be able to reach most of the residents of Garland County, almost tripling it's audience base. More importantly, KUHS-LP would be able to expand it's student generated content centers into four additional schools systems, helping many more students tell their stories and develop media literacy, learn to produce radio, and tell the stories that are relevant to them and their communities. My hometown area of Asheville NC will benefit too. Please expand the Low Power FM rules to LPFM-250.
