Please keep things fair and equal in the arena of internet providing. I pay an exorbitant amount for terribly slow, unreliable internet service already due to only being given two options for providers in a very large apartment complex housing thousands of people. If there were more providers that had the ability to compete here, the distribution would balance out and I wouldn't be needing to write this on my phone. A monopoly of providers in any market means poorer quality to the masses and higher costs. I won't be able to pay a price any higher for internet in my home or on my phone than I already am. Truth be told, I go without it many months. Please keep the American people in mind and protect us. This is a land of the many, not the few and the wealthy. Thank you.
