

60001324967.txt

After reviewing the provided document regarding the historic preservation review process for small facility deployments our office had a couple of concerns. 1. There is no mention of potential cumulative effects to historic properties. One or two deployments may not cause an adverse effect, but 10 or more might. 2. In many of our historic districts, the utility poles and light posts may be historic and certainly add to the integrity of setting and feeling. Section 106 review on deployments on utility or light poles should not be excluded as a rule, especially within or near historic districts.