Dear FCC,

My name is Nitai dan and I live in petah tiqwa, IN.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I don't want to see community innovations, such as mesh networking, get cut off.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

The internet since invented is an idea given for free to humenity no one but it's creator has the right to take it away.

Sincerely,

Nitai dan
