Dear FCC,

My name is Casey and I live in Louisville, KY.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to get on the internet for free. The internet is the only place we can go without having to be rich so

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

I use the internet to communicate and cheer up my day and I actually used YouTube to find out what u guys are doing

Sincerely,

Casey
