Dear FCC,

My name is Quinn Duva and I live in East Hartford, CT.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

The world is almost completely run through the internet. You cannot be successful in a modern society without it. To have to pay for a good life instead of it being an option right from the start is inhumane. It is unconstitutional to force someone to pay for the chance at a successful life.

Sincerely,

Quinn Duva
