Dear FCC,

My name is Seth and I live in Carver, MN.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

I don't want money to become more important than our right to use the Internet freely as we choose. The Internet is a wonderful place as it is and we don't need corporate big wigs to be able to tell us what we can and can't do on the Internet. That's like some 1984 George Orwell shit.

Sincerely,

Seth
