Dear FCC,

My name is Tigue Devine and I live in Northfield, NJ.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

Money isn't so important that you have to take the one freedom of many kids, teens, and adults. The internet is something one should not have to pay for. This is beyond selfish, greedy, and on a medical level, sociopathic. I'm a junior in high school, this year I'm taking a business class; the first thing they taught me is how to do successful business. Step number one: practice ethical business!

Sincerely,

Tigue Devine
