

60001333707.txt

Unfettered access to the internet has become so fundamental to the lives of all citizens. It is information access, an avenue for innovation and a way for voices, all voices, to be heard. It levels the playing field between those that have lots and those that have little or nothing.

Please keep the common carrier classification of ISPs and ensure a neutral internet where all voices carry equal weight.

The self serving push by the ISPs to be allowed to choose what I can access is nothing short of censorship. Given that there is no real competition in the ISP market, this greedy move is against the market philosophy they so ingeniously espouse.

Please keep the internet open and free. Please maintain net neutrality.