Dear FCC,

My name is Kasey and I live in Greenville, NC.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want the freedom to go to websites without having to pay to visit them.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

This would be just one more bill for the middle class to pay and when you already can't afford TV it would be HORRIBLE to no longer be able to use YouTube or deviantart and share my art and creativity with the rest of the world because I don't have enough money to pay for those sites. PLEASE DON'T TAKE AWAY MY COMMUNITY, MY LEARNING, MY SPEAK OF CREATIVITY, AND MY LIFE!!!!

Sincerely,

Kasey
