Dear FCC,

My name is Ian McDonald and I live in Cornelius , NC.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because The last thing we need is the government telling us we cannot make changes which better protect our privacy because "trust us"

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would Make it even easier to infringe upon our rights.

It is incredibly easy to break wifi security, and removing our ability to protect ourselves buys you nothing but emnity and demonstrates a fundamental lack of comprehension of the real world technological environment and the desire of the populati on to protect themsel ves.

Sincerel y,
