Dear FCC,

My name is David Robinson and I live in Wewoka, OK.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I don't want to see community innovations, such as mesh networking, get cut off.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

Since the invention of the internet, america has connected with other nations in a much stronger and peacefilled way. The world, and this country specifically are better because of it. Weve grown smarter, caught more bad guys, and have a lot more fun. Free and open internet is something that a free country should maintain. For the sake of ourselves, and the rest of the world, please protect net neutrality. The internet as it is, is a voice for any and everyone in this country, and it must not be silenced.

Sincerel y,

Davi d Robi nson
