Dear FCC,

My name is Will and I live in Utica, NY.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would keep me from using my custom wireless configuration.

I prefer to use my open source router. This allows me to utilize my own in home networking system as well as allow for my personal servers access to the wider internet so I can play games with my friends (I run game servers)

Sincerely,

Will
