Dear FCC,

My name is Janbec Chataw and I live in Haledon, NJ.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

Lately, we have been a country where we foster innovation and advancements in the technology sector. Now allowing customization of wireless routers would stall this sector and harm it irreparably. If it weren't for projects such as DD-WRT people wouldn't be able to secure themselves properly from the Wi-Fi hacks out there in a timely manner.

Sincerely,

Janbec Chataw
