Dear FCC,

My name is Glynn Brewer and I live in Katy, TX.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

Open source has become a vital means to achieve goals that otherwise would not be economically viable. In this case, it would not be in the public/consumer best interests to make this means of support a crime.

Sincerely,

Glynn Brewer
