Dear FCC,

My name is William Gray and I live in Mounds View, MN.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would make me feel less safe about the wireless networks I use and operate.

It's an infringement upon my 1st amendment rights to force me to use a specific medium that is known to be vulnerable which could contaminate or delay my communications, and thereby weaken the Bill of Rights, and conversely the people of the United States of America.

Being that you are public employees, it should come as no surprise that with this action you aren't just hurting my rights, you bankrupting your own freedoms as well. Realize that you're harming your own children's future just as much as everyone else.

Sincerely,

William Gray
