Dear FCC,

My name is Orion Poplawski and I live in Boulder, CO.

The principles of user choice and control are vitally important for a vibrant wireless ecosystem. But as written, the NPRM threatens to undermine these ideals by limiting what users can do with their devices. That's a concern, because I want to be able to update my own wireless software?not rely on slow manufacturers shipping updates.

The draft rules could enable device manufacturers to forbid third-party software, which would keep me from using my custom wireless configuration.

Software evolves at a blistering pace, and having the ability to update my device's software allows them to stay useful for a much longer time reducing waste.

Sincerely,

Orion Poplawski
